REPORT

Date... March 10, 1937.

Subject Alleged seizure of pistols in the house of Sz Foh Ling near Chung San Bridge by the Zau Ka Doo Police.

Made by..... and Forwarded by..... Supt. Tan Shao-liang.

There are no Policeman bearing the name of Yang Ching Ziang (楊金祥) attached to stations in the Zau Ka Doo Division. This information was referred to Chief Inspector Sih, who, after making further enquiries, reported that, according to his informer, this Policeman (a Sergeant) was transferred on the morning of February 20 (the day of the attack on Zau Ka Doo Station) to the Chinese Police Training Depot on Lunghua Road.

Enquiries were accordingly made at this institution and it appears from the file kept at Headquarters that this Sergeant was transferred to the Training Depot on February 19, one day previous to the trouble.

An investigation was conducted by Mr. Hwang Hwa and statements by this Police Sergeant and two other Policemen of the Chung San Road Sub-Station (who were on duty at the time of the trouble) were taken at his office. It appears from these statements that Sz Foh Ling, the Mill foreman, had only one pistol (a licenced one) in his possession and he had never handed it to any Policeman. Mr. Hwang Hwa does not think further investigations are necessary.

Copies of statements with translation are attached.

Statement of Lin Kwan Tin (林光錦), age 40, native of Kwai-chow.

I am the patrol officer attached to the Chow Ka Jao (周家渡) Sub-Station. I was transferred to this Station on the 1st instant. I have been in the Bureau less than three months. Formerly, I was in the Peace Preservation Corps. At 5.20 a.m. February 20, workers surrounded the house of Sze and took Sze Foh Ling, Shih Ching Chung and two others to Chung San Bridge. As there was a big crowd, I sent policemen to give protection.. I ordered the crowd to elect representatives to have a talk in the Sub-Station. After a considerable length of time, they detailed four representatives to the Sub-Station. Sze had a pistol in his possession but he did not hand it to any policeman. A confusion took place. Later, the officer i/c of the Branch Bureau also came and ordered the workers to disperse. The representatives together with Sze and three others were taken by the Chief to the Branch Bureau to discuss a settlement. From the beginning to the end, I did not see any of the four pistols which were said to have been handed to the policemen.

Statement of Yang Ching Ziang (楊經祥), Sergeant No. 175, age 38, native of Hopei.

I have served in the Sau Ka Doe Police Station from the 16th year of the Chinese Republic. I have been promoted Sergeant and am now attached to the Chung San Road Sub-Station. At 9 a.m. February 19 I proceeded to the Training Depot from the Sub-Station. (I was transferred there for special training). The Toyoda Cotton Mill case happened in the forenoon of February 20, when I was not in the place, so I do not know of any details. See Foh Ling came to the Sub-Station on February 20 but I had already left. After I left the Sub-Station, 1st class Policeman Yuan Yung Seng (袁永升) was appointed to take charge of the Sub-Station. Yuan is a native of Su Chien (蘇遷), Kiangsu. He has served in the Sub-Station for four years. His number is 3202. When See Foh Ling came to the Sub-Station, Ling Kwang Tin (凌光廷), patrol officer of the Chow Ka Jay Sub-Station, was in the place also. I heard this when I returned to the Sub-Station on Sunday.

March 8, 1937.

Copy of the Report submitted by Yuan Yung Seng (袁永升), Acting Officer in Charge of the Chung San Road Sub-Station.

In connection with the report on the strike of workers in the Toyoda Cotton Mill on February 20, I have to report that when I heard a policeman named Ti Yien Nien (鐵延年) was making a search of pedestrians at the Station Road Section at 4 a.m. February 20, they saw some 20 fierce looking men having the appearance of workers approaching from Zau Ka Doc. When they reached Chung San Bridge, they scattered about the North side of the Bridge and at the various cross roads. I followed them and regarded their movements with some suspicion. I asked them what was the matter, but they gave no reply. About 10 minutes later, a policeman named Chao Yi Pan (趙毅軒) reported the presence of workers on the North side of the Chung San Bridge who were obstructing other workers from going to work. I immediately telephoned to the Branch Bureau requesting that policemen be sent there to maintain order. The Chief of the Branch Bureau replied that he would proceed there himself. At 5.30 a.m. Sse Foh Ling sent a girl of about 16 years of age from the Toyoda Mill to submit a report to the Sub-Station to the effect that there were workers in Sse Foh Ling's house attempting to kidnap Sse to the Workers Union. The girl requested that I go there with the policemen Ti. We persuaded the workers not to go to their Union but to come to the Police Station. The Policeman Ti Yien Nien did not see any pistol in Sse Foh Ling's house and no pistol was handed to the Police. When Sse Foh Ling was brought to the Station, the Policeman Sui Chien Tang (隨劍堂) on duty at the Station door saw Sse Foh Ling take out a pistol and hand it to his wife. All the workers demanded to come to the Sub-Station, but they were dissuaded by me. I then asked them to detail one or two representatives. The workers agreed and sent four representatives (names not known) to the Sub-Station. Later, these workers' representatives together with Sze Foh Ling were taken to the Branch Bureau in a Police car.

This is to report to the Chief of the Section.

i/c Chung San Road Sub-Station.

Made by..... and Forwarded by Supt. Tan Shao-liang.

Regarding the paragraph of attached report in connection with the alleged seizure of four pistols in the house of Sz Poh Ling, an overseer of the Kung Yih Cotton Mill, on the north end of Chung San Bridge, enquiries made of Dr. Hung, Mr. Hwang Hwa and Mr. Waung Ta Jui indicate that no pistols were handed over to the Police Bureau by the mob who attacked the house.

It appears from records of the Chinese Police Arms Licence Section that Sz Poh Ling (孫寶齡) holds a licence to carry firearms but he has not made any report of the loss of his pistol or any other pistol and the Police are therefore unable to verify whether the story is correct or otherwise.

Dr. Hung has ordered an investigation.

Made by C.D.I. Sih Tse-liang Forwarded by Mr. Lassier b51

At 3 p.m. May 19, 1937, a meeting was held by some 50 representatives of the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, in the office of the Shanghai Western District Foreign Cotton Mill Workers' Foh Lee Society, 16 Ting Kong Li, off Jessfield Road, O.O.L., for the purpose of welcoming one Mr. Pan Yeu-nung (潘有農) who claimed to have been appointed by the local Tangpu to assist in the supervision of the activities of the Foh Lee Society. Matsu Yung-kong (茅永康), one of the most influential figures in the Society, presided and introduced Mr. Pan Yeu-nung to the attendance. Subsequently he stated that in compliance with instructions from the local Tangpu he had been reinstated in his position in the Society, while Messrs. Chen Pah-liang (陳伯良), Wong Zuh-ming (王澤明) and Kao Yueh-zung (高仰宗) had been removed from administrative positions in the society.

The meeting terminated at 4 p.m.

Mr.

It is to be noted that Lau Yung-kong was recently instructed to sever his relation with the Society by Mr. Leh Ying-chu (黎英初), a committee member of the local Tangpu, but subsequently reinstated in his former position by the Tangpu, in consequence of an appeal by the workers of the Toyoda Mill.

Messrs. Chen Pah-liang, Wong Zuh-ming and Kao Yueh-zung were responsible for the attempt to remove Mr. Lau Yung-kong from office.

Mr. Pan Yeu-nung (潘有農) is not a staff member of the local Tangpu but is a private follower of Mr. Leh Ying-chu, staff member of the People's Government Commission.

Subject: Toyoda Cotton Mill (Japanese) - Dispute over the control of Shanghai Municipality Western District Foreign Cotton Mill Workers' Foh Lee Society Settled.

Made by C.D.I. Sih Tsu-liang Forwarded by W. Lanier TS

In connection with the discharge by the local Tangpu of one named Tsu Yung-kong (朱永康) from the management of the Shanghai Municipality Western District Foreign Cotton Mill Workers' Foh Lee Society (上海市西區外商紗廠工會), 16 Ting Kong Li, off Jessfield Read, O.O.L., on May 12, it has been ascertained that Tsu has been reinstated in his former position in the Society on the instructions of Loh Ching-dz (陸吉士), committee member of the local Tangpu. This sudden change was the result of an appeal made by four representatives of the workers of the Toyoda Mill on or about May 13 to Loh Ching-dz, to whom the callers stated that should the Tangpu persist in the dismissal of Tsu Yung-kong from the Society, all workers would sever their connections with the Society as a protest. In view of the workers' decidedly unfavourable attitude towards the Tangpu's decision, Loh Ching-dz agreed to rescind the order of Tsu's dismissal.

The reinstatement of Tsu in the Society has removed the unrest among the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill.

In order to avoid possible trouble with the workers, Chen Tsu-liang and a few of his associates, who were responsible for recent dispute, are absenting themselves from the office of the Society for the time being.

Toyoda Cotton Mill (Japanese) - Dispute over the control of Shanghai Municipality Western District Foreign Cotton Mill Workers' Foh Lee Society.

Made by C.D.I. Sih Tae-liang Forwarded by De launier 651

At 8 p.m. May 11, 1937, some 100 workers of the

Toyoda Cotton Mill held a meeting in the office of the Shanghai Municipality Western District Foreign Cotton Mill Workers' Foh Lee Society (上海市滬西外商紗廠職工福利會),

No.16 Ting Kong Li, off Jessfield Road, O.O.L. One named Chen Pah-liang (陳伯良) claiming to be an employee of the Post Office, presided and stated that he had been assigned by Mr. Loh Ying-chu (羅英初), a staff member of the local Tangpu, to succeed Tsu Yung-kong (朱永康) in the control of the affairs of the Society. This announcement, however, met with strong opposition from the majority of the attendance who are Tsu's followers. Subsequently Chen Pah-liang declared that it was the decision of the local Tangpu that Tsu should be discharged from the Society and suggested that all workers of the Toyoda Mill should suspend work on May 12 and proceed to the local Tangpu to confirm the decision to dismiss Tsu. Those present failed to reach an agreement on the matter and the meeting ended.

It is to be recalled that following the dismissal of Van Pang-wu (范邦五), principal figure of the Society in consequence of the riot on February 20, Tsu Yung-kong, an ex-worker of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, possessing strong influence among workers of the Toyoda Mill automatically assumed full control of the Society. Tsu's high handed monopoly of the affairs of the mill unquestionably incurred the displeasure of the local Tangpu, thus leading to the Tangpu's decision to relieve him of his position and appoint one named Chen Pah-liang (陳伯良), who is believed to be a "tutee" of Mr. Chiu Hauch-kam, one of the most influential

On learning of this decision from his followers who attended the meeting held in the Society on May 11.

Tsu Yung-kong instructed all his followers not to suspend work on May 12. Chen Peh-liang received this information through his associates/named Wong Zuh-ming (王祖明), who is a fitter in the Toyoda Mill and one named Kao Yueh-sung (高裕成), ex-worker of the same concern, and instantly compiled a report to the Jessfield Village Branch Police Bureau, alleging that Tsu was fomenting a strike among mill hands. Tsu was then summoned by the Chinese Police to the Jessfield Village Branch Bureau and later taken together with Chen Peh-liang, Wong Zuh-ming and Kao Yueh-sung to the local Kuomintang Headquarters.

At the Kuomintang Headquarters, Tsu was asked by Leh Ying-chu to explain why he should instigate the workers to declare a strike. In reply Tsu strongly repudiated the allegation, but nevertheless was instructed by Leh Ying-chu to suspend his activities and not to approach the office of the Society for two weeks pending investigation by the Kuomintang authorities into the matter.

As previously reported, Tsu Yung-kong exercises much influence over the majority of the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, especially the 100 formal representatives of the workers, these representatives serving as links between the Society and the workers. Should the Tangpu insist upon Tsu's discharge from the Society, there is every likelihood that agitation will arise among the workers of the Toyoda

The 16 defendants were released on bail. The last hearing of the case took place on April 4 at the Court, Nantao, when it was remanded sine die owing to the absence of two of the 16 defendants, and the Court ruled that the guarantors be held responsible for producing the two absentees in question.

Sz Tsing-tsung (施進春), a clerk in the employ of the Toyoda Mill, was arrested on March 23 by the Judicial Police attached to the Shanghai District Court for being concerned in the attempted murder of Sung Chien-tai (孫乾泰) on February 19, 1937 and is still detained by the Court.

With reference to the Foh Lee Society, also known as the Shanghai Municipality Western District Foreign Cotton Mill Workers' Foh Lee Society (上海華通西外人紗廠工人福利會), it has been ascertained that Van Pang-wu (范邦梧), principal figure of the Society who was responsible for instigating the demonstration and riot has incurred the displeasure of Chu Hsueh-fan (朱學範) and Loh Ching-ds (羅廷士), two wellknown leaders in local circles, and in order to placate the Chinese Police, they have dismissed Van from his directorship of the Society. Consequently fearing that the Chinese Police might take steps against him for his share in the riot, Van has absconded to Nanking. His wife is still working in the Sung Sing No.1 Cotton Mill.

One named Wu Veng-pang (吳 恒 邦), a staff member of the local Tangpu, and a clerk of the Wu Chow Soap Factory Workers' Union, has been appointed by the local Tangpu and the General Labour Union to take Van Pang-wu's place in directing the activities of the Foh Lee Society. It is learned that despite his appointment, Wu has not yet officially taken over his duty, as he realizes that without first securing the workers' support, he cannot exercise authority. With this object in view, Wu, it is stated, has been soliciting assistance from one named Tsu Yung-kong (許 永 康), an active member of the Foh Lee Society, but so far without appreciable success. Accordingly, for the time being, Loh Ying-tso (羅 榮 塗), a staff member of the local Tangpu, unofficially manages the affairs of the Society.

Tsu Yung-kong, who is an ex-worker of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, possesses strong influence among workers of this mill, and it is said that he was very active during the May 30th Incident in 1925. Although he is not officially a staff member of the local Tangpu, Tsu is in receipt of a monthly allowance of $20 from this organ for services rendered. On the other hand, he is also a 'tutee' of one named Li Tso-sung (李 紹 球), staff member of the Chung Nyi Society.

Prior to the demonstration on February 20, 1937, Tsu was already very active under the leadership of Van Pang-wu in extending the activities of the Foh Lee Society, but owing to jealousy over money matter (the Foh Lee Society is in receipt of a monthly subsidy of $60 from the local Tangpu) was not in favour of Van, who preferred the cooperation of Sung Chien-tai, the victim of the attempted murder.

Following Van's dismissal from the General Labour Union and from the Foh Lee Society, Tsu Yung-kang automatically assumed full control of the Society, pending the appointment of a new supervisor. Taking advantage of this transition period, Tsu decided to eliminate the influence of Van Yang-wu and his followers as far as possible. This decision was believed to be responsible for the arrest of Sung Chien-tai on March 13 by the Chinese Police at the request of the management of the mill to whom Tsu reported that Sung was contemplating arrangements for another strike.

Sung was brought before the Court on March 17 but the case was dismissed owing to lack of evidence. It is learnt that Sung was subsequently discharged from the mill.

At present, ^{Tsu} has influence over the majority of the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, while Van Yang-wu and Sung Chien-tai's clique continues to enjoy only slender support from the minority.

of the Committee of the Foh Lee Association.

Made by..... D.S.I. Umemoto..... Forwarded by..... S.I. Nakamura

In connection with the attempted murder of Sung Chien Tai, information has been obtained from the management of the Toyoda Cotton Mills to the effect that a hearing of the case against six persons charged at the instance of Sung Chien Tai was held at the Nantao District Court during the afternoon of March 11. Only three defendants, namely, Shi Foh Lin (施福林), Chao Wei Shu (趙維恕) and Chen Chih Hsiang (陳志香) appeared before the Court. Shi Foh Lin and Chao Wei Shu denied the charge. Chen Chih Hsiang, who admitted that he was the man responsible for the stabbing of Sung Chien Tai, made the following statement:-

"On November 16, 1936, Sung Chien Tai came to my home and asked me to engage a number of loafers as he was planning to create a disturbance at the Toyoda Cotton Mills. As he promised to give me a tempting reward, I accepted the offer. He did not keep his promise, however, and treated me with indifference. Following the organization of the Foh Lee Association Sung became a member of the Committee of this Society. I repeatedly approached him with a view to securing a position in the mill through his influence, but he refused to pay heed to my entreaties. Being indignant over this apathy on the part of Sung, I decided to make him pay for this so I attacked him, purely out of personal motives, on the early morning of February 19."

by the Chinese Authorities.

Made by..... and..... Forwarded by.... D. I. Nakamura.

A meeting of labour delegates, representing Japanese Cotton Mills in the Western District, was recently held at the Dah Kong News Agency, Hankow Road, under the chairmanship of Van Pang Wu (范邦和), ~~a member of the committee of the~~ Chairman of the Foh Lee Association. Van Pang Wu who attended the meeting together with Tsu Yong Kong (朱永康), Secretary, addressed the meeting and alluded at length to the necessity of supporting the Foh Lee Association which he maintained was the only labour organ working solely in the interest of the workers and capable of waging war against the capitalists.

The following were the principle points particularly emphasized by the speaker in the course of his address:-

- 1) That each and every representative strive hard to make united efforts to secure the registration of all the workers in their mills with the Foh Lee Association.
- 2) That efforts be made to ascertain the identity of all the running-dogs of the managements.
- 3) That active propaganda be conducted in each mill with a view to winning support for the association.
- 4) That all workers should not overlook the profitable experience they have had recently from the strike in the Toyoda Cotton Mill and organize labour unions to deal with the management.
- 5) That efforts be made to popularize the activities of the Foh Lee Association.

According to information obtained from the Toyoda Cotton Mills, Sung Chien Tai (孫乾泰), a member of the Committee of the Foh Lee Association, was handed over to the Chinese Authorities by the management on the morning of March 13 when he reported for duty at the Toyoda No. 1 Cotton Mill. This action was taken as a result of information furnished by the General Labour Union and the Foh Lee Association to the effect that as Sung Chien Tai was planning to create disturbances it would not be advisable to permit him to stay in the mill.

This strange attitude of the General Labour Union and the Foh Lee Association is attributed to the existence of friction among the leaders of the above labour organisations.

THE TROUBLE IN THE TOYODA COTTON MILL

Sung Chi Tai (孫紀太), a worker of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, was stabbed and injured on February 18 by Shih Boo Ling (施碧麟), a private detective, and 13 others.

Evidence has now been secured and Sung has retained lawyer Wong Tso Shing (黃子星) to file a criminal prosecution against Shih and others in the Shanghai District Court at Nantao.

It is alleged by a high officer of the Police Bureau that Mr. Chu Hauch Van has gone to Nanking in response to a call from the Central Tangpu in connection with the labour trouble at Zau Ka Doo on February 20 in which Col. Tan was assaulted and the Zau Ka Doo Police Station was partly destroyed by the mob. The affair formed the subject of a complaint made by Mayor Wu Teh Chen.

It is learnt however that Mr. Chu's explanation of the affair has satisfied certain members of the Central Tangpu and that he has been appointed as the Chinese delegate to the Labour Conference in Geneva and will set out on an important mission on behalf of the Government.

Further to my previous report of February 26, 1937, on the strike of the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, I have to state that the following information has been obtained from a responsible staff official of the Mill:-

Sung Chien Tai (孫乾泰), who was stabbed on the early morning of February 19, reported for duty at 6 a.m. March 1. Sung states that he has not yet completely recovered but was instructed by officials of the Foh Lee Association to attend the mill just to "please" the management. He declined to disclose any information regarding the attack on his person.

The 16 workers of the mill who were arrested by the Chinese Authorities on the morning of February 20 when they attacked the Jessfield Village Branch Bureau and subsequently released on bail of $100 each, reported for work on February 22. They were, however, absent on February 25 presumably to appear before the Court. The case against them is still pending.

2 MAR. 1937. The management of the mill has requested the Chinese Authorities to deal with these workers severely according to law and is carefully watching the proceedings of the case.

Wong Chai Min (王才民), who was referred to as Wdung (溫) in my previous report of February 26, is employed in the Toyoda No. 2 Cotton Mill and represents the said mill on the Committee of the Foh Lee Association. He has been absent since the strike although he informed the management to the effect that he would be unable to attend the mill owing to some private reasons.

It was reported that Van Pang Wu (范邦武), Tsu Yong Kong (朱永康), Sung Chien Tai (孫乾泰) and Wong Chai Min have failed to answer summonses issued against them by the Chinese Authorities. What measures the Chinese Authorities would take against these leading members of the Foh Lee Association are being watched with interest by the officials of the Mill.

According to the management, the allegations that Shi Foh Lin (施福林), Shi Ching Tsung (施清宗) and Yuan Yih Fang (袁益芳), staff of the Personnel Department of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, were responsible for the attempted murder of Sung Chien Tai is entirely groundless, the assailants being the disgruntled coolies who owe him grudge for the recent exploitation. The management was reluctant to divulge their names for the time being because it is believed that they would give themselves up to the Police in the near future.

It is also reported that following the strike Sung Chien Tai and other leading members of the Foh Lee Association made the Man Yuan Hotel (孟源旅館) on Hupei Road their Headquarters from where they directed operations.

Subject Report on Mill Situation in the Western District

Made by and Forwarded by D. I. Nakamura

According to reliable information obtained by this office to-day the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mills especially those members of the Foh Lee Association have become considerably agitated on learning of the rearrest of the 15 men originally charged with riotous act at the Jessfield Branch Bureau and there is a persistent rumour that they will declare a strike as a protest against the action of the Chinese authorities. The millhands were to have walked out immediately after receiving their wages at 2 p.m. to-day, but this plan did not materialize. Meanwhile, it is also reported that the strike has been put off till Wednesday, 3.3.37. X

It would appear that the 13 men who had been bailed out by the Nantao District Court were suddenly rearrested to-day by order of the procurator who declared that he would press the charge against these men. This decision on the part of the authorities became known to the leaders of the Foh Lee Association who came to the conclusion that the only alternative left for them to win the sympathy of the workers was to call for a general strike immediately.

Subject Further report on the strike of the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill on February 20, 1937.

Made by and Forwarded by D. I. Nakamura.

In connection with the recent strike of the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, further information has been obtained from reliable Japanese sources to the effect that following the organization of the Foh Lee Association Sung Chien Tai (宋軒泰), a committee member of the Association, engaged about 13 loafers to make use of them to expand the influence of the newly organized society over the workers of various industrial concerns. The Association having succeeded in enlisting a large number of workers, numbering 3,000 persons, Sung Chien Tai severed his connections with the loafers as their services were no longer required. Being dissatisfied with the action taken by Sung, the discharged loafers repeatedly demanded of him for their reinstatements which was refused. It is, therefore, believed that the attempted murder of Sung Tien Tai was perpetrated by these disgruntled loafers as retaliation.

Van Pang Wu (萬邦午), Chairman of the Foh Lee Association, taking advantage of this incident, shifted blame on Shi Foh Lin (施福林), Shi Ching Tsung (時進春) and Yuan Yih Fang (袁一芳), staff of the Personnel Department of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, deliberately accusing them of the attack on Sung Chien Tai. As a result of this allegation, at a meeting held members of the Foh Lee Association on the night of February 19, which was presided over by Van Pang Wu, it was proposed to attack the three aforementioned persons. The plan was carried out on the morning of February 20.

It is also learned that Sung Chien Tai and another worker of the Toyoda No. 2 Cotton Mill named Waung (王), who is a member of the Association, are being kept in confinement by

A report similar to the one attached herewith has been received from the local office of the Japanese Cotton Mill Owners' Association of China. The officials of this association are desirous of curbing the activities of the Fon Lee Association, the notorious labour agitation organ, and they maintain that inasmuch as this association, which is under the direction of one Van Pong Wu, the chairman, had deliberately instigated its members to resort to acts of violence on February 20 when they attacked the Jessfield Village Sub-Station, there is ample reason to anticipate further troubles in the near future as long as these men are permitted to operate unrestricted.

Unless drastic measures are taken by the Police, they assert, to suppress the activities of this association, the situation will be considerably aggravated and eventually lead to intoward incidents between these undesirable elements and members of the Japanese Naval Landine Party stationed at the Toyoda Cotton Mill and other places in the Western District for the purpose of according protection to Japanese property.

In view of the foregoing circumstances, the officials of the Japanese Cotton Mill Owners' Association

Subject... Situation in the Toyoda Cotton Mill and the strike of workers.

Made by..... and..... Forwarded by D. I. Nakamura.

In connection with the recent dispute of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, a responsible staff official of the Mill was interviewed on February 23, 1937 and the following information was obtained:-

The dispute was settled through the mediation of Mr. Tu Yush-shen (杜月生) and the strikers resumed work at 6 p.m. February 20. The situation is at present quiet.

In the middle of November last year, the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill declared a strike at the instigation of outsiders. Upon resuming work, they have been as diligent and obedient as they used to be prior to the strike.

Following the organization of the Foh Lee Association (福利会) at the beginning of January this year, the attitude of the workers, especially male workers, suddenly changed for the worse. They became slack and radical and frequently refused to obey the orders of the foremen. Those who seemed to be representatives of the Association used to leave their posts without permission to keep in touch with other representatives. They held meetings at various places and forced workers to register their names with the Association and to pay membership fees. A number of cases occurred outside the mill in which loyal workers who refused to join the Association were intimidated and assaulted by members of the Association, thereby causing uneasiness amongst all the workers. Efficiency has been seriously affected as the hands cannot work peacefully. The output has therefore been considerably reduced.

Those who claim to be representatives are mostly young and unintelligent persons who have no experience whatever of the working of the mill. They behave arrogantly in the presence of workers and are always planning disturbances in their respective rooms. It was feared that disorder in the mill would be intensified and the occurrence of conflicts between foremen and workers would become inevitable owing to the activities of the undesirable elements of the Association.

The attitude of radical members of the Foh Lee Association and its propaganda work resemble those of Communists although the Association is stated to be a bona fide labour union for mutual aid and to have a certain support from Mr. Tu Yuez Shen. Whatever may be the object of the Association, it is clear from the facts that the Association is actively engaged in instigating loyal workers to become disgruntled and in directing them along the path of Communism.

Information was obtained by the management of the Mill to the effect that Sung Chien Tai (孫乾泰), Vice-Chairman of the Foh Lee Association, who is employed in the Toyoda No. 1 Cotton Mill and represents the said mill on the Committee of the Association, was attacked by three members of the Association on the early morning of February 19. At first not much importance was attached to this incident as it was regarded by the management of the mill as purely an internal feud among the members of the Association, ~~unfortunately~~ however, on the afternoon of the same day Van Pang Wu (萬邦和), Chairman of the Foh Lee Association, assisted by his secretary named Tsu Yong Kong (朱永康), convened a meeting of the millhands of the Toyoda Cotton Mill who are registered with the Foh Lee Association. This meeting took place in the Headquarters of the Association in Jessfield Village opposite the Chinese Police Station. Addressing the meeting which lasted till late at night, Van Pang Wu made a detailed report on the attack of its official. Shortly after 10 p.m. Van announced that from then on the meeting would be held in camera and requested those who did not agree with the policy of the Association in coming to this decision to withdraw. Whereupon the majority of a little over a hundred workers left the meeting leaving about 30 men. Addressing these men Van Pang Wu suggested the following lines of action in retaliation for the attack on Sung Chien Tai:-

- (1) That the workers rush the Chinese Police Station in Jessfield Village.
- (2) That steps be taken to attack three Chinese clerks employed in the Personnel Department of the Toyoda Cotton Mill.
- (3) That steps be taken to prevent the morning shift workers who turn up for work at 6 a.m. February 20 from going to work.

Fearing leakage of information regarding the plot, none of the participants were allowed to leave the office of the Association, and shortly after 4 a.m. the men were divided into two parties and one was detailed for the attack on the clerks named Shih Foh Ling (施福林), Shi Ching Tsung (時進春) and Yuan Yih Fang (袁益芳) while the other was drafted to the Police Station. The former attempt, however, was frustrated by the vigilance of the Police Officers of the Jessfield Sub-Station who immediately notified Colonel Tan, i/c of the 6th District, who succeeded in rescuing the three clerks. For their own safety, these clerks were escorted from the mill quarters to the Sub-Station by a score of Policemen under Colonel Tan. Several hundred members of the Foh Lee Association then made an attempt to rush the Sub-Station so the Colonel was obliged to transfer the clerks to the Jessfield Village Branch Police Bureau.

On arrival at the latter Police Bureau the party encountered enraged and unruly mob which had attacked the Police Bureau a short while previously. In the ensuing mêlée Colonel Tan and several other constables were more or less seriously injured while the three clerks in question managed to make good their escape by mingling with the crowd.

The management of the Toyoda Cotton Mills were somewhat surprised when early morning shift due for work at 6 a.m.

February 20 failed to report for work and began to make enquiries when the above incident was brought to light. Being anxious to have the trouble settled as soon as possible, the management immediately sent a representative to solicit the assistance of Tu Yuch Shen who the management has reason to believe is interested in the activities of the Foh Lee Association. Tu Yuch Shen readily agreed to mediate in the strike and due to his efforts the strike was called off right away, the workers resuming work from 6 p.m. February 20.

Various theories have been advanced regarding the motive for the strike, but the management attributes same to the ambitious plot of the Foh Lee Association to expand its influence in the mills which met with a stern opposition from the conservative element headed by the three clerks in question. The officials of the Foh Lee Association are all well known members of the General Labour Union as well as the Chinese Communist Party and their principal aim is to spread Communist influence in labour circles.

It will be recalled that Van Pang Wu and his secretary Tsu Yong Kong played important parts in the previous strike in the Toyoda Cotton Mills which took place in November last year when these men were responsible for the extensive sabotage. In this strike Van's wife also took an active part in inciting the workers to resort to violence and struggle against the capitalist.

According to information collected, the strike is the outcome of rivalry between two cliques among the workers, which was brought to a head on February 19, 1937, when one named Sung Chien-tai (孙健泰), who was one of the ringleaders during the strike and demonstration at the Toyoda Mills on November 17, 1936, and is at present a member of the preparatory committee of the "Shanghai Municipality Western District Foreign Cotton Mill Workers' Foh Lee Society" (上海西区外商棉纺工人福利社) was assaulted at his home at Chungsan Road on February 19, 1937.

These two cliques have not adopted any special name, but workers have divided themselves into two sides - one side consisting of those of fiery sentiments, the majority of whom took a prominent part in the labour agitation recently, while the other side includes those faithful to the management. Following the strike of workers in November, 1936, those of the anti-management clique, with the assistance of the General Labour Union and indirectly the local Tangpu, formed the above mentioned Foh Lee Society, ostensibly for the purpose of promoting mutual welfare among workers, but in reality, for exercising control over the labour activities among the Toyoda mill workers, and uniting them in case of any dealings with the management of the Mill. This Society is governed by a preparatory committee of twelve workers of the Toyoda Mills including Sung Chien-tai, the victim of the assault, and is actually controlled by one named van Pang-wu (范邦武), a delegate from the General Labour Union. The office of this Society is located at No.16 Ting Keng Li (丁基里), nicknamed Lao Wen Tong Loong (老溫堂龍), off Jessfield Road, O.O.L.

Sect. As the singular object of the Society is to counteract any action by the management regarding the workers, consequently members of this Society, especially the promoters, consider themselves the target of the hatred by the management, and therefore the antagonism between the two cliques increases every day. The difference was brought to a head on February 19 by the assault upon Sung Chien-tai, a committee member of the Society, because the anti-management clique imputed this assault to the plot of the pro-management clique, at the instigation of the management.

Subsequent to the assault, a delegation of workers of the Mill, headed by one named Sung Ping (宋平), called at the Jessfield Village Branch Police Bureau and requested that two persons named SX and Hmo, employees of the Mill, who were believed to be connected with the attempted murder case, be brought to justice at once. This request was rejected by Col. Tan, Chief of the Jessfield Village Branch Bureau of the Shanghai City Government Police Bureau, owing to lack of evidence.

Failing to obtain satisfaction from the Chinese Police, the workers of the No.1 Cotton Mill decided to stop working on the morning of February 20 as a protest against the incident and countermeasure against the management.

A party of some forty strikers proceeded at the same time to the home of Sz Feh-ling (謝若林), an overseer of the Mill, who was one of the two suspects, in a straw hut on the north end of the Chungsan Road bridge, where, it is said, four pistols, one of which was covered by a pistol licence, were seized. These weapons, it is reported, have already been handed over to the Chinese Police.

In the meantime, another party of strikers proceeded to the No.1 Mill and took into custody three employees of the mill including Sz Feh-ling, with the object of taking them to the office of the Society. Chinese Police under the direction of Col. Tan arrived on the scene and persuaded the strikers to hand over the prisoners to be dealt with by law. Eventually Col. Tan succeeded in obtaining possession of the prisoners, to the dissatisfaction of the strikers, and together with delegates of the strikers proceeded in a motor car to the Jessfield Village branch Police Bureau.

Before their arrival, however, some 3,000 workers had already assembled on Jessfield Road in the vicinity of the Branch Bureau for the purpose of appealing to the Chinese Police for the arrest of persons responsible for the attempted murder of Sung. On learning of the taking over of the prisoners by Col. Tan, the crowd was enraged and commenced to attack the Bureau premises to which they did Eventually some 200 policemen of the Reserve Unit of the Chinese Police Bureau arrived on the scene and succeeded in dispersing the rioters by firing several shots. Four of the demonstrators were wounded; and subsequently treated in the Red Cross Hospital, Avenue Haig. Three of them were later discharged from the hospital, but the remaining one is still detained in the Chung San Hospital, Peng Ling Jao, off Route Ghisi.

Subsequently the Chinese Police arrested sixteen persons in connection with the riot, and these prisoners were handed over to the Shanghai District Court in the evening of February 20, 1937.

Between 2.15 p.m. and 3.30 p.m. February 20, 1937 delegates of local Chinese Authorities consisting of Chiang Wei-sec (蔣惠書), representing the local Tangpu, Huang Yee-ming (黃亦明) and Tang Zing-kwei (唐廷桂), representing the Chinese Police Bureau, Wong Sien-tsing (王先清), representing the Bureau of Social Affairs, and Chu Hsueh-fan (褚學凡), representing the General Labour Union, held a meeting in the local Tangpu Headquarters, Peng Ling Jao, off Route Ghisi, and decided upon the following measures for the settlement of the incident :-

LARGE UNREST AT "TAYODA" COTTON MILL.

200 PERSONNEL KILLED.

At 6.50 a.m. 20/2/37, a telephone message was received at this station from the "Tayoda" Cotton Mill, 200 Jessfield Road, reporting that approximately 3,000 workers on the day shift had failed to report for work at 6 a.m. on date and that trouble was anticipated.

D.S.I. Harvey, D.C. Sugimoto and party of uniform police immediately proceeded to the above mill. Mr. Minuma, Chief of Personnel Dept., was interviewed and stated that just before 6 a.m. on date, large numbers of the male workers of the mill were picketed so as to cover all approaches to the mill and were instructing the female workers to return home pending a meeting which the male workers intended to hold at the headquarters of the "Beneficial Society for the Workers of Foreign Cotton Mills", 16 Lok Wang Lane (樂華街) Tsim Sha Tsui, near the Old Division Station of the S.C.G.P. Bureau.

As far as is known by the operators of the mill the unrest has been brought about because of the killing by stabbing of one, Sung Pih Tai (宋碧泰) the "Tayoda" mill workers' representative to the above said society, at about 12.30 a.m. 19/2/37, in front of the entrance gate of the Seamen's Club to the Tayoda Mill, representing the number of a rival society.

Seeing that there was no action being taken by the Police Bureau, Sung Jih Tai accompanied by a large number of male workers posted pickets during the early morning of 20/2/37 on various points in the vicinity of the Mill in order to stop the workers attending.

Shortly after a number of workers approached the Charge Room of the Jessfield Village Branch Station, demanding the arrest of Sung Jih Tai's assailant.

Being confronted with a very hostile crowd a call was put through to the Special Unit of the Police Bureau at Nantao for assistance.

Before the arrival of the Special Unit the crowd began rioting and the Station greatly damaged, whilst Col. Tan and a Chinese Constable received minor injuries to their head and body, they were immediately removed to the Red Cross Hospital, Avenue Haig, where they were discharged after receiving dressing.

On the arrival of the Special Unit, a baton charge was ordered to clear the rioters, and as many workers still remained on the premises of the Station causing a disturbance, some 8 or 9 shots were fired towards the ground, during which one of the mill workers named Tang Yung Loeng (唐永龍) aged 31, native of Hungs, standing in a straw hat off Robison Road was injured by a stray bullet, causing injury to his right knee, he is at present detained in the Red Cross Hospital.

Made by D.I. Kuh Pao Hwa Forwarded by T. Koyu D.S.I.

I forward herewith a translation of a handbill addressed to the workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill, 200 Jessfield Road, O.O.L., purporting to emanate from the Shanghai Labour Federation which was obtained by the Municipal Police in Western Chapei on February 25. This document, apart from denouncing the Police Chief of the district concerned, exhorts the workers to declare strikes and stage demonstrations as a protest against the alleged atrocities of imperialists and the oppressive measures by capitalists.

Summarized translation of a handbill entitled "Letter to the entire body of workers of the Toyoda Cotton Mill" obtained by the Municipal Police on February 25, 1937

Dear Labourers,

The imperialists are continuing to attack the poor and labouring masses. For the sake of our rice bowls, we have to endure all kinds of suffering and to work like beasts. The imperialists, however, have no sympathy for our hard life but oppress us in every way rendering our existence almost impossible.

The Foh Lee Society (扶黎會), organized by the Kuomintang, claims to work for the welfare of the workers, but, in reality, it extracts money from the labourers. The officers of the society are now at loggerheads simply because they are dissatisfied with the distribution of booty. Sung Chien Tai (宋劍泰), labour representative, is a straight forward man and works for the emancipation of the labourers. He does not receive any bribes from the imperialists. For this reason the imperialists hate him and instigated their running dog Sz Foh Ling (施福齡) to make an attempt on his life. Such a criminal should be immediately arrested and punished, but the running dog Col Tan Pao Shou (譚寶壽) released him. Therefore the workers became angry and attacked the Police Station. During the disturbance Col. Tan ordered his men to arrest 16 of the workers. These workers have been sent to Court and are still in custody. The existence of such a running dog of the "dwarf slaves" as Col. Tan Pao Shou cannot be tolerated and we cannot dissolve our anger towards him even if we eat his flesh, drink his blood, and sleep on his skin. Let us concentrate our strength and conduct a desperate struggle against this kind of running dog. We will request other workers to support you for the purpose of gaining the final victory. We hope you will not fall into the trick of the imperialists and will not surrender:

Our slogans are as follows:-

1. Strike and demonstrate against the imperialists.
2. Punish Sz Foh Ling and his instigators.
3. Expel the running dog Col. Tan Pao Shou.
4. Demand the release of the arrested workers.
5. Overthrow Japanese imperialism.
6. Overthrow all of those who betray and oppress the workers.

Shanghai Labour Federation.
